MM Interior Design Group (MMIDG) brought two “Excellence in Design Awards” back to Greensboro, from the American Society of Interior Design (ASID) 2023 annual conference.

These awards are judged by other Interior Designers from across the USA, which make them highly prestigious to be recognized by peers in our industry. Entry submissions required design layout plans, photo’s, design concepts, information regarding construction and how MMIDG met the client’s vision for objectives and budget.

Kitchen Renovation Award

This award-winning interior design project, located in Greensboro NC, involved a completed renovation of the client’s kitchen, breakfast area, pantry and laundry room. Their kitchen had a dated Tuscan style. The MMIDG team updated the areas to a new traditional style to improve both looks and functionality. The team (pictured in above photo #1) included: Marta Mitchell, President; Dan Garner, Lead Designer; and Angela Austin, Design Director.

Commercial Space Award

Winning in the Commercial Interior Design category, this project was in Jamestown, NC and involved bringing the client’s vision, brand, and character of the community to this retail space. The MMIDG team completed the ideal space plan, lighting and flow pattern to ensure the space was functional and appealing to their shoppers and the staff. The team (pictured in above photo #2) included: Marta Mitchell, President; and Ashley Coe, Design Director.
