

Dragonfly Residence Recognized with 2025 George Matsumoto Prize

GREENSBORO, NC — August 7, 2025

MM Interior Design Group is proud to announce that our collaboration on the Dragonfly Residence has been honored with a 2025 George Matsumoto Prize, one of North Carolina's most prestigious modern architecture awards. This project was a partnership with architect Adam Sebastian at STITCH Dwellings, exemplifying what's possible when design vision and cross-disciplinary teamwork come together.

Set on a quiet, tree-canopied lot, the Dragonfly Residence is a compelling exploration of modern design and architecture—and a great example of how MMIDG draws inspiration from every homeowner's unique personality and passion.

Working in close collaboration with her clients, MMIDG lead designer Ashley Lauren led the project from schematic planning through design development and final styling, ensuring a cohesive personal narrative throughout the home.

"We believe collaboration is the catalyst for extraordinary design," said Marta Mitchell, President and Principal Designer. "This award reinforces our belief that when architects, designers, and clients unite with purpose and imagination, truly remarkable spaces emerge.”

The George Matsumoto Prize celebrates excellence in modernist residential design and is organized by the NCModernist initiative to increase awareness and appreciation of modern architecture across North Carolina. We're honored to be part of this legacy and grateful to our partners and clients for trusting us to help shape such an inspiring home.

Explore photos of the Dragonfly Residence.

About MM Interior Design Group

MM Interior Design Group (MMIDG) is a leading interior design firm serving residential and commercial clients across the southeast and beyond for over 35 years. Renowned for a team-driven, client-first approach, MMIDG unites innovative technology, deep expertise, and a commitment to clarity at every stage of the design process. From immersive virtual reality visualizations to certified architectural drawings, MMIDG delivers inspiring, efficient, and personalized spaces—earning the trust of clients and industry partners alike.

Learn more at MMIDG.COM.